Aloha Faith,

I just found out that RDML Smith is out of town this week. He will return next week. Spoke to CDR Aguayo about your desire to have the local signatories sign this week, and on a single page. Would like to suggest that you obtain the SHPO's signature first. You can then pass the signature page to us later this week. We will brief it to RDML Smith and have him sign it next week. Please let us know if this will work for you.

Good afternoon,

As we mentioned in the email the other day to the consulting parties, FTA thanks you for input and patience with the development of the Honolulu Transit PA.

Please find attached the final version of the PA for you to share with your supervisors. The attachments to the PA may be found at:

Process for Signing

As we have expressed over the phone and previous emails, we are going to try to execute the agreement as quickly and efficiently as possible by obtaining the signatures from the signatories first and then the invited signatories. As of this time, the plan is to have everyone sign the same document. Faith Miyamoto from the City and County of Honolulu will be coordinating with the Navy and the SHPO in Honolulu to obtain signatures. Once, the PA contains the City's, the Navy's and the SHPO's signature, it will then go to FTA Region 9 for signature and then head to the ACHP for execution of the agreement. Once we receive the ACHP's signature, we will make a copy for ACHP's files and send the original document back to Region 9 to obtain the National Park Service's signature. The National Park Service is a very important invited signatory. After the agreement has all the signatures from the signatories and invited signatories, the agreement will be available in Honolulu for other consulting parties to concur on the document. If requested by a consulting party, the City will make arrangements for them to sign by counterpart signature.

The PA will be circulated with hard copies of all attachments.

Once the PA is executed, FTA will likely very quickly issue a record of decision for the NEPA review of the Project.

We will send out all the final materials to the consulting parties once the agreement is executed and the agreement with all attachments will be made available on the Project website. These materials will include signing instruction for interested consulting parties to become concurring parties. The City has had trouble with map projections to make the APE available through a Google Earth file format. However, the City is planning on sending the GIS files of the APE to the consulting parties.

Change in PA FTA Contacts

After this email, I am passing over the Honolulu Programmatic Agreement day-to-day responsibilities back to Ted Matley and Ray Sukys in FTA's Region 9 Office. Please contact one of them if you have questions or edits on the PA. For today, since they are out of the office, copy me if you have an urgent concern.

Thank you again for everything,

Liz
